

Scot Zens

"I want to focus on telling vignettes of my personal story with the church – not the logic of giving. My stories show the way that the church has shown up for me and my family. They show how I feel part of the mystery that is not so much understood and experienced. They show how I am grateful. In response to receiving these gifts, I need to show up. Part of my way to show up is to be reliable in my giving to the church."
